This course specification provides a summary of the main features of the course, identifies the aims and learning outcomes of the course, the teaching, learning and assessment methods used by teaching staff, and the reference points used to inform the curriculum.

This information is therefore useful to potential students to help them choose the right course of study, to current students on the course and to staff teaching and administering the course.

Further detailed information on the individual modules within the course may be found in the relevant module descriptors and the Course Handbook provided to students on enrolment.

Please refer to the Module Web Search for further information on the course structure and modules.

Educational aims of the course

- The course content of this degree will provide students with the following, as detailed in the QAA
- benchmark statement:
 - the underlying values, theories and concepts relevant to education
 - the diversity of learners and the complexities of the education process
 - the complexity of the interaction between learning and local and global contexts, and the extent to which participants (including learners and teachers) can influence the learning process
 - the societal and organisational structures and purposes of educational systems, and the possible implications for learners and the learning process
- The Education QAA benchmark statement requires the degree to provide students with the skills
 - to analyse, examine new concepts, apply theory, reflect, and communicate knowledge. In delivering to these standards the degree will provide students with the content and skills to;
