This course specification provides a summary of the main features of the course, identifies the aims and learning outcomes of the course, the teaching, learning and assessment methods used by teaching staff, and the reference points used to inform the curriculum.

This information is therefore useful to potential students to help them choose the right course of study, to current students on the course and to staff teaching and administering the course.

Further detailed information on the individual modules within the course may be found in the relevant module descriptors and the Course Handbook provided to students on enrolment.

Please refer to the Course and Module Catalogue for further information on the course structure and modules.

Educational aims of the course

- To allow students to enhance and extend their scholarship, research skills, practical studio skills and knowledge in relation to the subject of designed visual communication. This is achieved through the development of self-directed research-driven study that critically engages with and positions itself at the forefront of the subject. Historical, contemporary and theoretical contextual discourses constitute an essential role in defining and positioning engagement with the subject of Graphic Design both academically and professionally.
- To provide a challenging and stimulating study environment that facilitates developing and extending the intellectual and practical learning and subject specific skills and knowledge of the student.
- To enable students to develop specialist interests and knowledge by way of negotiated learning.
- To provide an opportunity for students to develop as critically reflective practitioners in their chosen specialism.
- To provide students with the opportunity to develop research in a critical framework of enquiry.
- To provide students with the skills and knowledge required to maximise career and further postgraduate and research opportunities.

Disclaimer

The University of Portsmouth has checked the information provided in this Course Specification and will endeavour to deliver this course in keeping with this Course Specification. However, changes to the course may sometimes be required arising from annual monitoring, student feedback, and the review and update of modules and courses.

Where this activity leads to significant changes to modules and courses there will be prior consultation with students and others, wherever possible, and the University of Portsmouth will take all reasonable steps to minimise disruption to students.

It is also possible that the University of Portsmouth may not be able to offer a module or course for reasons outside of its control, for example, due to the absence of a member of staff or low student registration numbers. Where this is the case, the University of Portsmouth will endeavour to inform applicants and students as soon as possible, and where appropriate, will facilitate the transfer of affected students to another suitable course.
