This course specification provides a summary of the main features of the course, identifies the aims and learning outcomes of the course, the teaching, learning and assessment methods used by teaching staff, and the reference points used to inform the curriculum.

This information is therefore useful to potential students to help them choose the right course of study, to current students on the course and to staff teaching and administering the course.

Further detailed information on the individual modules within the course may be found in the relevant module descriptors and the Course Handbook provided to students on enrolment.

Please refer to the Course and Module Catalogue for further information on the course structure and modules.

Educational aims of the course

- To allow students to enhance and extend their scholarship, research skills, practical skills and knowledge in relation to the subject of contemporary photographic practice. This is achieved through the development of self-directed research driven study that critically engages with and challenges the subject.
- To develop students' knowledge and awareness of historical, contemporary and theoretical contextual discourses which constitute an essential role in defining and positioning engagement within the subject of contemporary photographic practice both academically and professionally.
- To provide students with an intellectually challenging study environment where they can question, reflect and respond to social, ethical and political debates within the subject specialism.
- To provide a challenging and stimulating study environment that facilitates the developing and extending of their practice and subject specific skills.
- To develop an understanding of the differences between practice-led research and theoretical research.
- To equip students with the necessary transferable skills for lifelong learning, employability and flexibility in the context of changing labour markets.
- To provide students with the skills and knowledge required to maximise career and post graduate opportunities.

Disclaimer

The University of Portsmouth has checked the information provided in this Course Specification and will endeavour to deliver this course in keeping with this Course Specification. However, changes to the course may sometimes be required arising from annual monitoring, student feedback, and the review and update of modules and courses.

Where this activity leads to significant changes to modules and courses there will be prior consultation with students and others, wherever possible, and the University of Portsmouth will take all reasonable steps to minimise disruption to students.

It is also possible that the University of Portsmouth may not be able to offer a module or course for reasons outside of its control, for example, due to the absence of a member of staff or low student registration numbers. Where this is the case, the University of Portsmouth will endeavour to inform applicants and students as soon as possible, and where appropriate, will facilitate the transfer of affected students to another suitable course.
