- To provide an opportunity for students to gain experience and skills relevant to future employment

Course Learning Outcomes and Learning, Teaching and Assessment Strategies

The Quality Assurance Agency for Higher Education \(QAA\) sets out a national framework of qualification levels, and the associated standards of achievement are found in their Framework for Higher Education Qualifications document.

The Course Learning Outcomes for this course are outlined in the tables below.

A. Knowledge and understanding of:

LO number	Learning outcome	Learning and Teaching methods	Assessment methods
A1	The world's division into multiple polities, drawing on the study of anarchy, security, economy, globalisation and the extent of - and explanations for - conflict and cooperation between states as well as above, below and beyond states and non-state actors.	Lectures, seminars, tutorials, workshops, student and tutor led sessions, skills, discussion and knowledge-based classes, simulation exercises, exams	Essays, reports, portfolios, dissertation, seminar performance, briefing papers, group and individual work
A2	The relations between human beings and their sociopolitical and ecological environments at local, national and global levels in both historical and contemporary settings, such as imperialism, colonialism, patriarchy, heteronormativity, ableism and racism.
A3	Engage critically with Politics and International Relations, including normative and positive foundations of (international) political ideas; the vocabulary of (global) political debate; the structure and operation of different political systems; the social, economic, historical and cultural contexts of political behaviour; and the factors accounting for political change.
A4	Complex and advanced key themes, concepts, and methods used in the study of international relations and global politics to be able to critically engage with the often controversial and contested nature of the fields and its boundaries.
A5	The process of planning, executing and presenting an independent piece of work, in which qualities such as time management, problem solving and independence are evident, as well as critical interpretation and evaluation of the quality of evidence.
