This course specification provides a summary of the main features of the course, identifies the aims and learning outcomes of the course, the teaching, learning and assessment methods used by teaching staff, and the reference points used to inform the curriculum.

This information is therefore useful to potential students to help them choose the right course of study, to current students on the course and to staff teaching and administering the course.

Further detailed information on the individual modules within the course may be found in the relevant module descriptors and the Course Handbook provided to students on enrolment.

Please refer to the Course and Module Catalogue for further information on the course structure and modules.

Educational aims of the course

- Develop the knowledge and skills required for a career in operating department practice including providing evidence-based decisions to support perioperative patient care and transferable skills to facilitate personal development.
- Develop critical, analytical, practical, professional, research and communication skills necessary for a patient-centred approach to care and life-long independent learning and acquisition of knowledge and the use of evidence to inform practice.
- Develop ability to demonstrate leadership and clinical reasoning as a member of a multidisciplinary team and have the capacity to evaluate own performance and the performance of peers and students by identifying strengths and weaknesses through reflection.
- Ensure that all statutory requirements are met in order to be eligible to apply for HCPC registration as an Operating Department Practitioner.
- Develop the ability to become an independent and autonomous perioperative care practitioner using independent/autonomous decision making.

Disclaimer

The University of Portsmouth has checked the information provided in this Course Specification and will endeavour to deliver this course in keeping with this Course Specification. However, changes to the course may sometimes be required arising from annual monitoring, student feedback, and the review and update of modules and courses.

Where this activity leads to significant changes to modules and courses there will be prior consultation with students and others, wherever possible, and the University of Portsmouth will take all reasonable steps to minimise disruption to students.

It is also possible that the University of Portsmouth may not be able to offer a module or course for reasons outside of its control, for example, due to the absence of a member of staff or low student registration numbers. Where this is the case, the University of Portsmouth will endeavour to inform applicants and students as soon as possible, and where appropriate, will facilitate the transfer of affected students to another suitable course.
