This course specification provides a summary of the main features of the course, identifies the aims and learning outcomes of the course, the teaching, learning and assessment methods used by teaching staff, and the reference points used to inform the curriculum.

This information is therefore useful to potential students to help them choose the right course of study, to current students on the course and to staff teaching and administering the course.

Further detailed information on the individual modules within the course may be found in the relevant module descriptors and the Course Handbook provided to students on enrolment.

Please refer to the Course and Module Catalogue for further information on the course structure and modules.

Educational aims of the course

- To provide students with knowledge and understanding of the country/countries where their target language - French, German or Spanish - is spoken using a range of appropriate disciplinary or interdisciplinary approaches.
- To provide students with a sound understanding of contemporary affairs in one language area (French, German or Spanish), with opportunities for specialisation in historical studies (including social and cultural), politics and social science, or business and economics.
- To enable students to acquire an informed sense of the similarities and differences between areas, thus fostering cross-cultural and international perspectives.
- To provide students with a detailed understanding of the fields of communication and digital communication.
- To provide students with translation and interpreting skills
- To offer students the opportunity to be recommended for Qualified Teacher Status (QTS) via MFL with Qualified Teacher Status (QTS) route
- To equip graduates with the necessary transferable skills for lifelong learning and flexibility in the context of changing labour markets
- To provide students with the skills and knowledge required to maximise careers and postgraduate study opportunities
- To provide all students with the opportunities to develop their linguistic and communication skills in accordance with their needs and with their overall programme objectives.
- To engage students in using their target language for the purposes of understanding, expression and communication in written, oral and aural forms.
- To attain explicit knowledge of the language (grammar, idiom, registers, and vocabulary).
- To acquire knowledge of aspects of the cultures, communities and societies where the language is used.
- To develop intercultural awareness and understanding.
